

Welcome to Wilderspool Woods

The history of Wilderspool Woods

Known locally since 1794 as Wilderspool Woods, this area has been a gentleman's house, a cottage and later known as a farm. A lavish property with six bedrooms, two living spaces, coach house and stables, Wilderspool Hall and Farm was owned by the Garner family. The farm, which was south of the hall, had Peter Warburton there from 1894-1898. The Hall was demolished in 1963 and the land became part of the farm which was razed in 1967-8 and is home today to the Travel Inn.
